

CANYON LAKE

The Canyon Lake area survey showed that there were 17 dwellings constructed prior to 1930. In my judgement there were none which merit consideration for nomination to the National Register. Many of the dwellings appear to have been constructed originally as tourist or summer cabins with easy access to the Canyon Lake recreation area and to the Black Hills.

I was surprised that there were not more dwellings constructed prior to 1930. Much of the character of the Canyon Lake neighborhood seems to be related to the narrow streets, few of which are through streets, to the streams and irrigation ditches which run through the area, and to the definite borders of the area. If any further research or preservation effort is initiated for the Canyon Lake area, I would recommend that the focus be directed towards examining and preserving the numerous elements which give the area its character. Preservation of individual buildings or groups of buildings in this area will not retain the character unless the larger is given equal consideration.
